I'm sorry to take so much of your time but want to give you a few impressions I got.

1. Great bitterness about DeMartini and positive knowledge that he intimidated witnesses.
2. Absolute proof that a conference was held at the Hall home "5 days before the murder - another 10 days before.
3. Absolute proof about many other things that we know to be false and which I denied in toto. Among other things that Mr. Hall had an illegal operation performed upon Mrs. Mills in New York.

The Jersey City policeman professed great surprise when I said that Mrs. Hall and her family were more anxious to know the truth than anyone else. When I made the mistake of saying that their witnesses had no character it was met with a black look and the remark that "they were church members". There's probably nothing new in this but in case there should be a suggestion I want you to have it. It is a sickening experience to talk to such people and has opened my eyes to the fearful things Mrs. Hall will have to hear at the trial. There was much talk of only wanting to get at the truth, no desire to persecute any one, etc. etc. They treated me very well, and I was not antagonistic. An hour and a half of that kind of thing finds one unguarded in spots. I sincerely hope I did not make many mistakes. I'm sure of one thing - they went away believing that I was absolutely convinced of the innocence of all four, and based my belief on knowledge of their character and truthfulness.

Sincerely yours,

Agnes W. Storer
